Harvest Home Picnic. This annual event at Shelton's Grove was not so largely attended last Saturday as it has been in some former years. The usual crowd came in carriages and other conveyances, but this branch of the Erie railroad ceased to be of use to the towns farms through which it passes, and this year they furnished no accommodations to land the people at the grove, as has been done in the

The driveways to the grove are very attractive this time of the year. The sumac, the golden rod and the elderberries which fringe the borders of the highways add to the rustic appearance of the surrounding landscape. The Quaker City band of Salem furnished good selections of music all day. The merry-go-round, the swings and the boating furnished harmless amusement for the young. while the older ones looked on in contentment.

Gov. Judson Harmon of Columbus and Mayor Al Carlisle of Salem reached the grounds in a carriage about noon and proceeded to eat their dinner at the tables prepared by the ladies of Willow Grove Grange, No. 1688. The Governor weighs say 180 pounds; was dressed in a plain, light colored suit, slouch hat, low top tan shoes and black socks. His hands were as yellow as his shoes and looked as though he could put in full time in the harvest field or in an iron furnace. The seated hill-side facing the speaker was alive with anxious listeners, and when the band had ceased playing the speaker arose and entertained his audience for about an hour and a half. He has not the flow of oratory of W. J. Bryan, nor does he "masticate the fabrick," but his subject matter is solid and practical. He paid his respects to the audience and appeared surprised that Fred Redinger, Denny O'Connor and Editor Arnold were not there. However, our candidate for sheriff was present, and with attorney J. B. Morgan, shook hands with Hizzoner.

The Governor said that he wanted to visit every one of the 88 counties and meet the people who voted for him and presumed that the people wanted to know what their servant a high compliment to a people's government and to the occupation of farming, and said that the latter should not be tax-ridden beyond justice to support a species of royalty in a republic. He gave an account of what had been done under his administration towards advancing Agriculture and Good Roads, and adding several millions of dollars to the tax duplicate that had escaped taxation Instian from three to 14 times; trebled valuations on sleeping car, freight line and equipment companies.
